"(A) is likely to cause confusion, or to cause mistake, or to deceive as to the affiliation, connection, or association of such person with another, or to the origin, sponsorship, or approval of his goods, services, or commercial activities by another; or

In determining whether a mark is famous and has distinctive quality, a court shall weigh the following and other relevant factors:

"(A) whether the mark is inherently distinctive or has become distinctive through substantially exclusive and continuous use;

"(B) whether the duration and extent of use of the mark are substantial;

"(C) whether the duration and extent of advertising and publicity of the mark are substantial;

"(D) whether the geographical extent of the trading area in which the mark is used is substantial;

"(3) Ownership of a valid registration under the Act of 1881 or the Act of 1905 or on the principal register established herein shall be a complete bar to an action brought by another person, under the common law or statute of a State, seeking to prevent dilution of the distinctiveness of a mark, label, or form of advertisement."

(2) amending the paragraph defining "trade name" and "commercial name" to read as follows:

"The terms 'trade name' and 'commercial name' mean any name used by a person to identify his business or vocation."

(3) amending the paragraph defining "trademark" to read as follows:

(4) amending the paragraph defining "service mark" to read as follows:

"The term 'service mark' means any word, name, symbol, or device or any combination thereof used by a person, or which a person has a bona fide intention to use in commerce and for which he applies for registration on the principal register established by this Act, to identify and distinguish the services of one person, including a unique service, from those of others and to indicate the source of the services, even if that source is unknown. Titles, character names, and other distinctive features of radio or television programs may be registered as service marks notwithstanding that they, or the programs, may advertise the goods of the sponsor."

(5) amending the paragraph defining "certification mark" to read as follows:

"The term 'certification mark' means any word, name, symbol, or device or any combination thereof used by a person other than its owner, or for which there is a bona fide intention for such use in commerce through the filing of an application for registration on the principal register established by this Act, to certify regional or other origin, material, mode of manufacture, quality, accuracy, or other characteristics of such person's goods or services or that the work or labor on the goods or services was performed by members of a union or other organization.";

(8) amending the matter which appears between the paragraph defining "mark", and the paragraph defining "colorable imitation" to read as follows:

"The term 'use in commerce' means use of a mark in the ordinary course of trade, commensurate with the circumstances, and not made merely to reserve a right in a mark. For purposes of this Act, a mark shall be deemed to be in use in commerce (1) on goods when it is placed in any manner on the goods or their containers or the displays associated therewith or on the tags or labels affixed thereto, or if the nature of the goods makes such placement impracticable then on documents associated with the goods or their sale, and the goods are sold or transported in commerce, and (2) on services when it is used or displayed in the sale or advertising of services and the services are rendered in commerce, or the services are rendered in more than one State or in this and a foreign country and the person rendering the services is engaged in commerce in connection therewith.

"A mark shall be deemed to be 'abandoned'—

"(1) when its use has been discontinued with intent not to resume. Intent not to resume may be inferred from circumstances. Nonuse for two consecutive years shall be prima facie evidence of abandonment. 'Use' means use made in the ordinary course of trade, commensurate with the circumstances, and not made merely to reserve a right in a mark; or

"(2) when any course of conduct of the owner, including acts of omission as well as commission, causes the mark to become the generic name for the goods or services or otherwise to lose its significance as a mark. Purchaser motivation shall not be a test for determining abandonment under this subparagraph.

"The term 'dilution' means the material reduction of the distinctive quality of a famous mark through use of the mark by another person, regardless of the presence or absence of (1) competition between the users of the mark, or (2) likelihood of confusion, mistake, or deception arising from that use."

SEC. 39. The Trademark Act of 1946 is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

"Sec. 51. All certificates of registration based upon applications for registration pending in the Patent and Trademark Office on the effective date of the Trademark Law Revision Act of 1988 shall remain in force for a period of 10 years."

SEC. 40. This Act and the amendments made by this Act shall become effective on the date one year after the date of enactment of this Act.

AMENDMENT NO. 2078

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, on behalf of Mr. DeCONCINI, I send a technical amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from West Virginia [Mr. BYRD] for Mr. DeCONCINI, proposes an amendment numbered 2078:

On page 48, line 13, strike out "the generic name" and insert in lieu thereof "the generic name for the goods or services or a portion thereof, for which it is registered."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 2078) was agreed to.

Mr. DeCONCINI. Mr. President, I am pleased that the Senate has waived the 2-day rule in order to expeditiously consider this important bipartisan bill S. 1883, the Trademark Law Revision Act of 1988. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate adopt S. 1883 as reported by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The purpose of S. 1883, Trademark Law Revision Act of 1988, is to amend the Trademark Act of 1946 to bring it up to date with present day business practices and realities. The legislation improves the act's protection of the public from counterfeit, confusion and deception, increases the value of the Federal trademark registration system for U.S. companies, and removes the current preference for foreign companies applying to register.

Mr. President, S. 1883 represents the first overall revision of the Federal trademark statute, the Lanham Act, since the act was adopted in 1946. Many of the revisions are substantive and will have a significant impact on U.S. trademark law. Others are of a technical nature, serving only to correct deficiencies and inconsistencies in the Lanham Act's language. Importantly, none of the amendments contained in S. 1883 alter the stated purposes of the Lanham Act or conflict with Congress' intent when it passed the act more than 40 years ago. In sum, S. 1883 modernizes the Federal trademark statute while preserving its balanced protection of business [trademark owners] and the public [consumers].

Mr. President, S. 1883, the Trademark Law Revision Act of 1988, represents the culmination of thousands of hours of work over the past 2½ years. The bill is based on the results of a study conducted by the U.S. Trademark Association's Review Commission. The Commission's comprehensive review of the policies and components of the trademark system included an exhaustive questionnaire to the trademark community, extensive study of specific topics by committees, and open debate at annual meetings. Hundreds of trademark owners and practitioners, more than 50 organizations, government officials in the United States and abroad, and eminent scholars in the fields of constitutional, commercial, trademark, and unfair competition law contributed their views. When the study was completed the Commission produced a lengthy report of its findings and recommended legislative changes in the trademark system.

S. 1883, as I introduced it on November 19, 1987, encompassed those recommendations. The Subcommittee on Patents, Copyrights, and Trademarks held a hearing on the bill on March 15, 1988, and heard testimony from trademark associations, individual trademark experts, and trademark owners such as Mrs. Fields Inc. and Frito-Lay, Inc. Following the hearing several improvements were made to the bill. My colleagues, particularly my good friend from Utah, Senator HATCH, worked closely with me in an effort to perfect the bill. I commend my colleagues, particularly the cosponsors Senators GRASSLEY, HEFLIN and HATCH for recognizing the importance of this legislation and working with me to move it in an expeditious manner. A substitute amendment was unanimously approved by the subcommittee on April 13, 1988 and by the full Judiciary Committee on May 12, 1988.

The following outlines in more detail some of the specific provisions of S. 1883:

A. APPLICATIONS BASED ON INTENT-TO-USE

S. 1883 creates a system whereby companies and individuals may apply to register marks in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office on the basis of a bona fide intent-to-use the mark in commerce. Presently, an American company may apply to register a mark only after it has actually used the mark in commerce. Conversely, a foreign applicant is not required to use a mark before applying for a U.S. registration if it files based on a foreign registration or application.

U.S. adoption of an intent-to-use application system has several advantages. First, it eliminates the extreme uncertainty American companies face as they invest in introducing new products and services. Second, it reduces the advantage that foreign trademark owners now enjoy. Third, it makes unnecessary the contrived practice of "token use" as a means of meeting pre-application use requirements. Last, it brings United States law into greater conformity with worldwide practice.

The proposed intent-to-use application system will supplement the present use-based system; applicant will be able to choose between filing on the basis of intent-to-use or on the basis of actual use. While the existing use-based system would not change procedurally, all applicants who allege use of a mark in commerce will be subject to a more stringent definition of use. This definition, which will eliminate the commercially-transparent practice of token use as a means of creating trademark rights, will also help to reduce the amount of "deadwood" on the register.

The intent-to-use system provided for by S. 1883 includes several safeguards against abuse. Among them:

1. All business must state their bona fide intent-to-use a mark in commerce on or in connection with all of the goods or services stated in an application for registration.

2. With the exception of marks for which application for registration is filed on the basis of a foreign registration or foreign priority date, no mark will be registered until it is used in commerce on a commercial scale and then it will be registered only for those goods or services for which evidence of this use is submitted.

3. After a mark is approved for registration, it will have to be used within six months or the application will be abandoned. This six-month period may be extended in six-month increments up to a maximum of four years. To obtain each extension, the applicant must file a statement of its continued bona fide intention to use the mark and pay a fee.

4. To reduce substantially the risks of introducing a new product and the potential for conflict between trademark users, the date an application to register is filed (whether it is filed on the basis of use or intent-to-use) will constitute nationwide "constructive use" of the mark. This will give the applicant priority rights over later users or applicants. This right of priority can not be enforced, however, until the applicant makes use of its mark and obtains a registration.

B. ACCURACY OF THE FEDERAL REGISTER

The goal of the federal trademark registration system is the creation of a record which accurately reflects all marks that are actually being used in the U.S. marketplace. S. 1883 includes several provisions devoted to this objective.

"Deadwood". As a means of eliminating from the register those marks which are no longer in use and thereby do not qualify for registration (i.e., "deadwood"), the bill first reduces the term of a trademark registration from twenty to ten years (a commensurate decrease in the renewal fee would accompany this change).

Second, it imposes stricter requirements for maintaining a registration. During the sixth year of the term of a registration, the owner of a trademark registration will have to file an affidavit with the Patent and Trademark Office stating that the mark is in use on or in connection with all the goods or services recited in the registration and will have to provide specimens or facsimiles evidencing that use. (These new "section 8" requirements parallel those that are now required at the time a mark is renewed.) These changes, along with the new definition of use for which S. 1883 provides, will enlarge the pool of available marks for business to adopt, use and register.

C. PROTECTION OF FAMOUS MARKS FROM DILUTION

S. 1883 creates a federal cause of action permitting the owner of a registered mark, which is truly famous and has distinctive quality, to protect the mark from use by others which unfairly capitalizes on the exceptional recognition and renown of the mark or which reduces or destroys the distinctive quality of the mark even if likelihood of confusion in the marketplace, the standard test of trademark infringement, cannot be proved. This new cause of action is highly selective; it protects only those federally registered marks that are most likely to be diluted through non-competing use. It will augment, not preempt, the twenty-three state dilution laws.

D. UNREGISTERED MARKS

S. 1883 amends the language of section 43(a) of the Lanham Act to conform it to the expanded scope of protection it has been given by the courts. In addition, the revised section makes misrepresentations (e.g., false advertising claims) about another's products or services actionable (under present law, actions are limited to misrepresentations about one's own products or services), and extends the remedies available in cases involving registered marks to cases brought under the section where no registration is involved.

Mr. METZENBAUM. Mr. President, when the subcommittee considered S. 1883 an amendment was adopted to delete from section 35(a)(1)(B) the phrase "or by omission of material information". What was the subcommittee's intent in making that deletion?

Mr. DeCONCINI. Mr. President, this deletion was made to respond to concerns that it could be misread to require that all facts material to a consumer's decision to purchase a product or service be contained in each advertisement. Currently the question of when section 43(a) reaches failure to disclose information material to a consumer's purchasing decision is an open question in the courts. Recent court decisions and commentators have suggested that omissions may give rise to a cause of action regardless of whether any affirmative misrepresentations have been made. The committee does not condone deceptive advertising whether by affirmative misrepresentation on material omission, and leaves to the courts the task of further developing and applying this principle under section 43(a).

Mr. RUDMAN. Mr. President, I would like to take this opportunity to engage my colleague from Arizona, Mr. DeCONCINI, the distinguished chairman of the Judiciary Subcommittee on Patents, Copyrights and Trademarks, in a brief discussion of the bill currently being considered by the Senate, S. 1883. It is my understanding that this bill does nothing to change current law or practice regarding parallel imports, sometimes known as gray market goods.

Mr. DeCONCINI. That is correct. This bill, which revises trademark law, is not intended to address the issue of gray market goods or parallel importation.

Mr. RUDMAN. One section of the bill adds a Federal dilution section to current law. This provision provides protection for famous registered trademarks from unauthorized uses which materially reduce the distinctiveness of the mark. The Senator's introductory floor statement cites the example of a situation where a mark such as Kodak is used for pianos, or Buick is used for aspirin. I presume that this is still the type of situation intended to be covered in this bill, that is, dilution through the noncompeting use of a trademark.

Mr. DeCONCINI. That is correct. This provision is specifically intended to address a narrow category of famous registered trademarks where the unauthorized use by others, on dissimilar products for which the trademark is not registered, dilutes the distinctiveness of the famous work.

Mr. RUDMAN. I thank the Senator for clarifying this matter.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I am pleased to speak on behalf of the Trademark Reform Act, S. 1883. This important piece of legislation will amend the Lanham Act, the law that has governed the trademark area for more than 40 years.

The bill improves, in a number of ways, trademark law for large and small businesses, as well as consumers. First, it will make a major change in the way we establish trademark use. Under current law, someone who wants to use a particular trademark must put the mark "in commerce" so as to demonstrate the mark is truly in use. This is an outdated method, for our economy, which is in such an advanced technological state. Instead, this bill would allow registration of a trademark based upon a bona fide intent to use. Thus, a company or an individual can reserve a trademark before the final product is ready to go to market. It will allow more certainty in this field.

Second, the bill creates a Federal remedy to protect famous trademarks against dilution of the mark. At the present time, such claims are resolved under 23 different State laws and the decisions of the State courts. Instead of being subject to inconsistent decisions, truly famous marks will be entitled to national protection.

And third, section 43 of the Lanham Act, which is essentially used to protect against unfair competition, will be modified. The changes, however, will only codify the law laid down by our Federal courts. The modified section 43 will entitle a suit to be brought for "use of a false designation of origin or of a false or misleading description or representation, misrepresents the nature, characteristics, or qualities of his or another person's goods, services, commercial activities or their geographic origin." Under this language, the public will be protected against false advertising and unfair competition.

This bill is a good example of how Congress can, in fact, improve a statute. Senator DeCONCINI, chairman of the Subcommittee on Patents, Copyrights and Trademarks of the Judiciary Committee, is to be commended for his hard work and thorough analysis of the trademark law and modification. The bill was introduced last fall, hearings were held this Spring, and a consensus, including industry groups and the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, developed around the importance of passing this bill. I thank Senator DeCONCINI for the opportunity to have a part in the passage of this important legislation. I urge my colleagues to approve it speedily.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill is open to further amendment. If there be no further amendment to be proposed, the question is on agreeing to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute, as amended.

The committee amendment was agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and was read the third time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill having been read the third time, the question is, shall it pass?

So the bill (S. 1883) is amended, was passed, as follows:

S. 1883

That this Act may be cited as the "Trademark Law Revision Act of 1988".

Sec. 38. Section 45 of the Trademark Act of 1946 (15 U.S.C. 1127) is amended by—

(1) amending the paragraph defining "related company" to read as follows:

"The term 'related company' means any person whose use of a mark is controlled by the owner of the mark in respect to the nature and quality of the goods or services on or in connection with which the mark is used."

(2) amending the paragraph defining "trade name" and "commercial name" to read as follows:

"The terms 'trade name' and 'commercial name' mean any name used by a person to identify his business or vocation."

(3) amending the paragraph defining "trademark" to read as follows:

"The term 'trademark' means any word, name, symbol, or device or any combination thereof used by a person, or which a person has a bona fide intention to use in commerce and for which he applies for registration on the principal register established by this Act, to identify and distinguish his goods, including a unique product, from those of others and to indicate the source of the goods, even if that source is unknown."

(4) amending the paragraph defining "service mark" to read as follows:

"The term 'service mark' means any word, name, symbol, or device or any combination thereof used by a person, or which a person has a bona fide intention to use in commerce and for which he applies for registration on the principal register established by this Act, to identify and distinguish the services of one person, including a unique service, from those of others and to indicate the source of the services, even if that source is unknown. Titles, character names, and other distinctive features of radio or television programs may be registered as service marks notwithstanding that they, or the programs, may advertise the goods of the sponsor."

(5) amending the paragraph defining "certification mark" to read as follows:

"The term 'certification mark' means any word, name, symbol, or device or any combination thereof used by a person other than its owner, or for which there is a bona fide intention for such use in commerce through the filing of an application for registration on the principal register established by this Act, to certify regional or other origin, material, mode of manufacture, quality, accuracy, or other characteristics of such person's goods or services or that the work or labor on the goods or services was performed by members of a union or other organization."

(6) amending the paragraph defining "collective mark" to read as follows:

"The term 'collective mark' means a trademark or service mark used by the members of a cooperative, an association, or other collective group or organization, or which such entity has a bona fide intention to use in commerce and for which it applies for registration on the principal register established by this Act, and includes marks indicating membership in a union, an association, or other organization."

(7) amending the paragraph defining "mark" to read as follows:

"The term 'mark' includes any trademark, service mark, collective mark, or certification mark."

(8) amending the matter which appears between the paragraph defining "mark", and the paragraph defining "colorable imitation" to read as follows:

"The term 'use in commerce' means use of a mark in the ordinary course of trade, commensurate with the circumstances, and not made merely to reserve a right in a mark. For purposes of this Act, a mark shall be deemed to be in use in commerce (1) on goods when it is placed in any manner on the goods or their containers or the displays associated therewith or on the tags or labels affixed thereto, or if the nature of the goods makes such placement impracticable then on documents associated with the goods or their sale, and the goods are sold or transported in commerce, and (2) on services when it is used or displayed in the sale or advertising of services and the services are rendered in commerce, or the services are rendered in more than one State or in this and a foreign country and the person rendering the services is engaged in commerce in connection therewith.

"A mark shall be deemed to be 'abandoned'—

"(1) when its use has been discontinued with intent not to resume. Intent not to resume may be inferred from circumstances. Nonuse for two consecutive years shall be prima facie evidence of abandonment. 'Use' means use made in the ordinary course of trade, commensurate with the circumstances, and not made merely to reserve a right in a mark; or

"(2) when any course of conduct of the owner, including acts of omission as well as commission, causes the mark to become the generic name for the goods or services or otherwise to lose its significance as a mark. Purchaser motivation shall not be a test for determining abandonment under this subparagraph.

"The term 'dilution' means the material reduction of the distinctive quality of a famous mark through use of the mark by another person, regardless of the presence or absence of (1) competition between the users of the mark, or (2) likelihood of confusion, mistake, or deception arising from that use."

(a) A registered mark or a mark for which application to register has been filed shall be assignable with the goodwill of the business in which the mark is used, or with that part of the goodwill of the business connected with the use of and symbolized by the mark. However, no application to register a mark under section 1(b) shall be assignable prior to the filing of the verified statement of use under section 13(b)(2), except to a successor to the business of the applicant, or portion thereof, to which the mark pertains.

"(3) A security interest in a mark obtained pursuant to this section will extend to the consideration received upon the sale, exchange, collection or other disposition of the mark for ten days after receipt of the consid-

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from West Virginia (Mr. BYRD) for Mr. DeCONCINI, proposes an amendment numbered 2078:

On page 48, line 13, strike out "the generic name" and insert in lieu thereof "the generic name for the goods or services or a portion thereof, for which it is registered."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 2078) was agreed to.

Mr. DeCONCINI. Mr. President, I am pleased that the Senate has waived the 2-day rule in order to expeditiously consider this important bipartisan bill S. 1883, the Trademark Law Revision Act of 1988. I ask unanimous consent that the Senate adopt S. 1883 as reported by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The purpose of S. 1883, Trademark Law Revision Act of 1988, is to amend the Trademark Act of 1946 to bring it up to date with present day business practices and realities. The legislation improves the act's protection of the public from counterfeit, confusion and deception, increases the value of the Federal trademark registration system for U.S. companies, and removes the current preference for foreign companies applying to register.

Mr. President, S. 1883 represents the first overall revision of the Federal trademark statute, the Lanham Act, since the act was adopted in 1946. Many of the revisions are substantive and will have a significant impact on U.S. trademark law. Others are of a technical nature, serving only to correct deficiencies and inconsistencies in the Lanham Act's language. Importantly, none of the amendments contained in S. 1883 alter the stated purposes of the Lanham Act or conflict with Congress' intent when it passed the act more than 40 years ago. In sum, S. 1883 modernizes the Federal trademark statute while preserving its balanced protection of business [trademark owners] and the public [consumers].

Mr. President, S. 1883, the Trademark Law Revision Act of 1988, represents the culmination of thousands of hours of work over the past 2½ years. The bill is based on the results of a study conducted by the U.S. Trademark Association's Review Commission. The Commission's comprehensive review of the policies and components of the trademark system included an exhaustive questionnaire to the trademark community, extensive study of specific topics by committees, and open debate at annual meetings. Hundreds of trademark owners and practitioners, more than 50 organizations, government officials in the United States and abroad, and eminent scholars in the fields of constitutional, commercial, trademark, and unfair competition law contributed their views. When the study was completed the Commission produced a lengthy report of its findings and recommended legislative changes in the trademark system.

S. 1883, as I introduced it on November 19, 1987, encompassed those recommendations. The Subcommittee on Patents, Copyrights, and Trademarks held a hearing on the bill on March 15, 1988, and heard testimony from trademark associations, individual trademark experts, and trademark owners such as Mrs. Fields Inc. and Frito-Lay, Inc. Following the hearing several improvements were made to the bill. My colleagues, particularly my good friend from Utah, Senator HATCH, worked closely with me in an effort to perfect the bill. I commend my colleagues, particularly the co-sponsors Senators GRASSLEY, HEFLIN and HATCH for recognizing the importance of this legislation and working with me to move it in an expeditious manner. A substitute amendment was unanimously approved by the subcommittee on April 13, 1988 and by the full Judiciary Committee on May 12, 1988.

The following outlines in more detail some of the specific provisions of S. 1883:

A. APPLICATIONS BASED ON INTENT-TO-USE

S. 1883 creates a system whereby companies and individuals may apply to register marks in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office on the basis of a bona fide intent-to-use the mark in commerce. Presently, an American company may apply to register a mark only after it has actually used the mark in commerce. Conversely, a foreign applicant is not required to use a mark before applying for a U.S. registration if it files based on a foreign registration or application.

U.S. adoption of an intent-to-use application system has several advantages. First, it eliminates the extreme uncertainty American companies face as they invest in introducing new products and services. Second, it reduces the advantage that foreign trademark owners now enjoy. Third, it makes unnecessary the contrived practice of "token use" as a means of meeting pre-application use requirements. Last, it brings United States law into greater conformity with worldwide practice.

The proposed intent-to-use application system will supplement the present use-based system; applicant will be able to choose between filing on the basis of intent-to-use or on the basis of actual use. While the existing use-based system would not change procedurally, all applicants who allege use of a mark in commerce will be subject to a more stringent definition of use. This definition, which will eliminate the commercially-transparent practice of token use as a means of creating trademark rights, will also help to reduce the amount of "deadwood" on the register.

The intent-to-use system provided for by S. 1883 includes several safeguards against abuse. Among them:

1. All business must state their bona fide intent-to-use a mark in commerce on or in connection with all of the goods or services stated in an application for registration.

2. With the exception of marks for which application for registration is filed on the basis of a foreign registration or foreign priority date, no mark will be registered until it is used in commerce on a commercial scale and then it will be registered only for those goods or services for which evidence of this use is submitted.

3. After a mark is approved for registration, it will have to be used within six months or the application will be abandoned. This six-month period may be extended in six-month increments up to a maximum of four years. To obtain each extension, the applicant must file a statement of its continued bona fide intention to use the mark and pay a fee.

4. To reduce substantially the risks of introducing a new product and the potential for conflict between trademark users, the date an application to register is filed (whether it is filed on the basis of use or intent-to-use) will constitute nationwide "constructive use" of the mark. This will give the applicant priority rights over later users or applicants. This right of priority can not be enforced, however, until the applicant makes use of its mark and obtains a registration.

B. ACCURACY OF THE FEDERAL REGISTER

The goal of the federal trademark registration system is the creation of a record which accurately reflects all marks that are actually being used in the U.S. marketplace. S. 1883 includes several provisions devoted to this objective.

"Deadwood". As a means of eliminating from the register those marks which are no longer in use and thereby do not qualify for registration (i.e., "deadwood"), the bill first reduces the term of a trademark registration from twenty to ten years (a commensurate decrease in the renewal fee would accompany this change).

Second, it imposes stricter requirements for maintaining a registration. During the sixth year of the term of a registration, the owner of a trademark registration will have to file an affidavit with the Patent and Trademark Office stating that the mark is in use on or in connection with all the goods or services recited in the registration and will have to provide specimens or facsimiles evidencing that use. (These new "section 8" requirements parallel those that are now required at the time a mark is renewed.) These changes, along with the new definition of use for which S. 1883 provides, will enlarge the pool of available marks for business to adopt, use and register.

C. PROTECTION OF FAMOUS MARKS FROM DILUTION

S. 1883 creates a federal cause of action permitting the owner of a registered mark, which is truly famous and has distinctive quality, to protect the mark from use by others which unfairly capitalizes on the exceptional recognition and renown of the mark or which reduces or destroys the distinctive quality of the mark even if likelihood of confusion in the marketplace, the standard test of trademark infringement, cannot be proved. This new cause of action is highly selective; it protects only those federally registered marks that are most likely to be diluted through non-competing use. It will augment, not preempt, the twenty-three state dilution laws.

D. UNREGISTERED MARKS

S. 1883 amends the language of section 43(a) of the Lanham Act to conform it to the expanded scope of protection it has been given by the courts. In addition, the revised section makes misrepresentations (e.g., false advertising claims) about another's products or services actionable (under present law, actions are limited to misrepresentations about one's own products or services), and extends the remedies available in cases involving registered marks to cases brought under the section where no registration is involved.

Mr. METZENBAUM. Mr. President, when the subcommittee considered S. 1883 an amendment was adopted to delete from section 35(a)(1)(B) the phrase "or by omission of material information". What was the subcommittee's intent in making that deletion?

Mr. DeCONCINI. Mr. President, this deletion was made to respond to concerns that it could be misread to require that all facts material to a consumer's decision to purchase a product or service be contained in each advertisement. Currently the question of when section 43(a) reaches failure to disclose information material to a consumer's purchasing decision is an open question in the courts. Recent court decisions and commentators have suggested that omissions may give rise to a cause of action regardless of whether any affirmative misrepresentations have been made. The committee does not condone deceptive advertising whether by affirmative misrepresentation on material omission, and leaves to the courts the task of further developing and applying this principle under section 43(a).

Mr. RUDMAN. Mr. President, I would like to take this opportunity to engage my colleague from Arizona, Mr. DeCONCINI, the distinguished chairman of the Judiciary Subcommittee on Patents, Copyrights and Trademarks, in a brief discussion of the bill currently being considered by the Senate, S. 1883. It is my understanding that this bill does nothing to change current law or practice regarding parallel imports, sometimes known as gray market goods.

Mr. DeCONCINI. That is correct. This bill, which revises trademark law, is not intended to address the issue of gray market goods or parallel importation.

Mr. RUDMAN. One section of the bill adds a Federal dilution section to current law. This provision provides protection for famous registered trademarks from unauthorized uses which materially reduce the distinctiveness of the mark. The Senator's introductory floor statement cites the example of a situation where a mark such as Kodak is used for pianos, or Buick is used for aspirin. I presume that this is still the type of situation intended to be covered in this bill, that is, dilution through the noncompeting use of a trademark.

Mr. DeCONCINI. That is correct. This provision is specifically intended to address a narrow category of famous registered trademarks where the unauthorized use by others, on dissimilar products for which the trademark is not registered, dilutes the distinctiveness of the famous work.

Mr. RUDMAN. I thank the Senator for clarifying this matter.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I am pleased to speak on behalf of the Trademark Reform Act, S. 1883. This important piece of legislation will amend the Lanham Act, the law that has governed the trademark area for more than 40 years.

The bill improves, in a number of ways, trademark law for large and small businesses, as well as consumers. First, it will make a major change in the way we establish trademark use. Under current law, someone who wants to use a particular trademark must put the mark "in commerce" so as to demonstrate the mark is truly in use. This is an outdated method, for our economy, which is in such an advanced technological state. Instead, this bill would allow registration of a trademark based upon a bona fide intent to use. Thus, a company or an individual can reserve a trademark before the final product is ready to go to market. It will allow more certainty in this field.

Second, the bill creates a Federal remedy to protect famous trademarks against dilution of the mark. At the present time, such claims are resolved under 23 different State laws and the decisions of the State courts. Instead of being subject to inconsistent decisions, truly famous marks will be entitled to national protection.

And third, section 43 of the Lanham Act, which is essentially used to protect against unfair competition, will be modified. The changes, however, will only codify the law laid down by our Federal courts. The modified section 43 will entitle a suit to be brought for "use of a false designation of origin or of a false or misleading description or representation, misrepresents the nature, characteristics, or qualities of his or another person's goods, services, commercial activities or their geographic origin." Under this language, the public will be protected against false advertising and unfair competition.

This bill is a good example of how Congress can, in fact, improve a statute. Senator DeCONCINI, chairman of the Subcommittee on Patents, Copyrights and Trademarks of the Judiciary Committee, is to be commended for his hard work and thorough analysis of the trademark law and modification. The bill was introduced last fall, hearings were held this Spring, and a consensus, including industry groups and the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, developed around the importance of passing this bill. I thank Senator DeCONCINI for the opportunity to have a part in the passage of this important legislation. I urge my colleagues to approve it speedily.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill is open to further amendment. If there be no further amendment to be proposed, the question is on agreeing to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute, as amended.

The committee amendment was agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and was read the third time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill having been read the third time, the question is, shall it pass?

"ASSIGNMENT AND GRANT OF SECURITY INTEREST"

"SEC. 10. (a) A registered mark or a mark for which application to register has been filed shall be assignable with the goodwill of the business in which the mark is used, or with that part of the goodwill of the business connected with the use of and symbolized by the mark. However, no application to register a mark under section 1(b) shall be assignable prior to the filing of the verified statement of use under section 13(b)(2), except to a successor to the business of the applicant, or portion thereof, to which the mark pertains.

"(b)(1) A security interest in a registered mark, or a mark for which an application for registration has been filed under section 1(b) or subsection (d) or (e) of section 44, may be obtained and will be superior to any interest subsequently granted to a third party, provided—

"(A) the party granted the security interest obtains a security interest in the goodwill of the business in which the mark is used, or with that part of the goodwill of the business connected with the use of and symbolized by the mark; and

"(B) notice of such interest is filed in the Patent and Trademark Office—

"(i) within ten days after the interest is granted if the interest pertains to a registered mark or if it pertains to a mark which is the subject of an application for registration under section 1(b) or subsection (d) or (e) of section 44, or

"(ii) within four months after the mark is registered if the interest pertains to a mark which is the subject of an application under section 1(a) or 23 and the person holding the interest has a valid, perfected interest pursuant to State law at the time the mark is registered.

"(2) A party granted a security interest in a registered mark, or a mark for which an application for registration has been filed under section 1(b) or subsection (d) or (e) of section 44, may, after default by the party granting the security interest, require the debtor to assign the mark to—

"(A) a transferee who is also being assigned that part of the goodwill of the business connected with the use of and symbolized by the mark; or

"(B) the party holding the security interest, even though such party does not presently engage in the business to which the mark relates, provided that the secured party either subsequently engages in the business to which the mark relates or holds the mark only for the purpose of subsequently transferring the mark along with the goodwill associated with the mark and that such subsequent transfer occurs prior to dissipation of the goodwill.

"(3) A security interest in a mark obtained pursuant to this section will extend to the consideration received upon the sale, exchange, collection or other disposition of the mark for ten days after receipt of the consideration by the transferor and will then lapse unless a financing statement or other document is filed as required by appropriate State law.

"(c) In any assignment of or grant of a security interest in a mark it shall not be necessary to include the goodwill of the business connected with the use of and symbolized by any other mark used in the business or by the name or style under which the business is conducted.

"(d) Assignments and grants of security interest shall be by instruments in writing duly executed. Acknowledgment shall be prima facie evidence of the execution of an assignment or a grant of a security interest and when recorded in the Patent and Trademark Office the record shall be prima facie evidence of execution. An assignment of or grant of a security interest in a mark shall be void as against any subsequent purchaser or other entity being granted an interest for a valuable consideration without notice, unless recorded in the Patent and Trademark Office—

"(1) within three months after the date thereof or prior to such subsequent purchase in the case of an assignment; or

"(2) pursuant to the provisions of subsection (b)(1)(B) or prior to the subsequent filing of a conflicting interest, whichever is later, in the case of the grant of any security interest.

"(e) A separate record of documents submitted for recording under this section shall be maintained in the Patent and Trademark Office. Such record shall include any release, cancellation, discharge, or satisfaction relating to any conveyance or other instrument affecting title to or any interest in a registered mark or a mark for which application to register has been filed.

"(f) An assignee or holder of a security interest not domiciled in the United States shall be subject to and comply with the provisions of section 1(d) of this Act."

"(2) a notice of allowance shall be issued to the applicant if he applied for registration under section 1(b). Within six months following the date of the notice of allowance, the applicant must file in the Patent and Trademark Office, together with such number of specimens or facsimiles of the mark as used in commerce as may be required by the Commissioner and payment of the prescribed fee, a verified statement that the mark is in use in commerce and specifying the date of applicant's first use of the mark and the date of applicant's first use of the mark in commerce, those goods or services specified in the notice of allowance on or in connection with which the mark is used in commerce and the mode or manner in which the mark is used in connection with such goods or services. Subject to examination and acceptance of the statement of use, the mark shall be registered in the Patent and Trademark Office, and a certificate of registration issued, for those goods or services recited in the statement of use for which the mark is entitled to registration and notice of registration shall be published in the Official Gazette of the Patent and Trademark Office. The notice shall specify the goods or services for which the mark is registered.

"(A) The time for filing the statement of use shall be extended for an additional six-month period upon written request of the applicant prior to expiration of the six-month period. Such request shall be accompanied by a verified statement that the applicant has a continued bona fide intention to use the mark in commerce and specifying those goods or services identified in the notice of allowance on or in connection with which the applicant has a continued bona fide intention to use the mark in commerce. Up to six further extensions of six months each shall be obtained when requested prior to the expiration of the extended period and accompanied by a verified statement that the applicant has a continued bona fide intention to use the mark in commerce and specifying those goods or services identified in the most recent extension for which the applicant has a continued bona fide intention to use the mark in commerce. Each request for an extension shall be accompanied by payment of the prescribed fee.

"(B) The Commissioner shall notify any applicant who files a statement of use of the acceptance or refusal thereof and, if a refusal, the reasons therefor. An applicant may amend his statement of use.

"(C) The failure to timely file a verified statement of use shall result in abandonment of the application."

SEC. 15. Section 14(c) of the Trademark Act of 1946 (15 U.S.C. 1064(c)) is amended to read as follows:

"(c) at any time if the registered mark becomes the generic name for the goods or services, or a portion thereof, for which it is registered, or has been abandoned, or its registration was obtained fraudulently or contrary to the provisions of section 4 or of subsection (a), (b), or (c) of section 2 for a registration hereunder, or contrary to similar prohibitory provisions of such prior Acts for a registration thereunder, or if the registered mark is being used by, or with the permission of, the registrant so as to misrepresent the source of the goods or services on or in connection with which the mark is used. If the registered mark becomes the generic name for less than all of the goods or services for which it is registered, a petition to cancel the registration for only those goods or services may be filed. A registered mark shall not be deemed to be the generic name of goods or services solely because such mark is also used as a name of or to identify a unique product or service. The primary significance of the registered mark to the relevant public rather than purchaser motivation shall be the test for determining whether the registered mark has become the generic name of goods or services on or in connection with which it has been used; or"

SEC. 16. Section 15(4) of the Trademark Act of 1946 (15 U.S.C. 1065(4)) is amended by striking out the "common descriptive name of any article or substance, patented or otherwise" and inserting in lieu thereof "the generic name for the goods or services or a portion thereof, for which it is registered."

SEC. 17. Section 16 of the Trademark Act of 1946 (15 U.S.C. 1066) is amended by striking out "applied to the goods or when used in connection with the services" and inserting in lieu thereof "used on or in connection with the goods or services".

Sec. 18. Section 18 of the Trademark Act of 1946 (15 U.S.C. 1068) is amended by—

"(3) Ownership of a valid registration under the Act of 1881 or the Act of 1905 or on the principal register established herein shall be a complete bar to an action brought by another person, under the common law or statute of a State, seeking to prevent dilution of the distinctiveness of a mark, label, or form of advertisement."

(4) amending the paragraph defining "service mark" to read as follows:

"The term 'service mark' means any word, name, symbol, or device or any combination thereof used by a person, or which a person has a bona fide intention to use in commerce and for which he applies for registration on the principal register established by this Act, to identify and distinguish the services of one person, including a unique service, from those of others and to indicate the source of the services, even if that source is unknown. For purposes of this Act, a mark shall be deemed to be in use in commerce (1) on goods when it is placed in any manner on the goods or their containers or the displays associated therewith or on the tags or labels affixed thereto, or if the nature of the goods makes such placement impracticable then on documents associated with the goods or their sale, and the goods are sold or transported in commerce, and (2) on services when it is used or displayed in the sale or advertising of services and the services are rendered in commerce, or the services are rendered in more than one State or in this and a foreign country and the person rendering the services is engaged in commerce in connection therewith.

"A mark shall be deemed to be 'abandoned'—

"(1) when its use has been discontinued with intent not to resume. Intent not to resume may be inferred from circumstances. Nonuse for two consecutive years shall be prima facie evidence of abandonment. 'Use' means use made in the ordinary course of trade, commensurate with the circumstances, and not made merely to reserve a right in a mark; or

"(2) when any course of conduct of the owner, including acts of omission as well as commission, causes the mark to become the generic name for the goods or services or otherwise to lose its significance as a mark. Purchaser motivation shall not be a test for determining abandonment under this subparagraph.

"The term 'dilution' means the material reduction of the distinctive quality of a famous mark through use of the mark by another person, regardless of the presence or absence of (1) competition between the users of the mark, or (2) likelihood of confusion, mistake, or deception arising from that use."

(1) plastic ring carrier devices have been found in large quantities in the marine environment;

(3) non-degradable plastic ring carrier devices can remain intact in the marine environment for decades, posing a threat to fish and wildlife; and

(4) eleven States have enacted laws requiring that plastic ring carrier devices be made from degradable material in order to reduce litter and to protect fish and wildlife.

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 2. As used in this Act, the term—

(1) "regulated item" means any plastic ring carrier device which is made, used, or designed for the purpose of packaging, transporting, or carrying multipackaged cans or bottles, and which is of a size, shape, design, or type capable, when discarded, of becoming entangled with fish or wildlife; and
